LONDON.—A number of American military commentators, in the course of the last few months, have been questioning the utility of the Italian campaign and have suggested that the casualties sustained in the advance on the Italian Peninsula were out of all proportion to the strategic results obtained.

As a matter of fact, it seems certain, when the Italian campaign is viewed in the light of the facts and figures known, that historians will agree that the Italian campaign played an indispensable role in the general wearing-down of the enemy which was an essential preliminary to the success of the D-Day invasion.

To judge this matter in its true perspective, we must return to May, 1943, when the British and American armies entered Tunisia and when the North African campaign was being cleared of Axis troops. The British victory at Alamein in October, 1942, and the immense disaster which the Russians inflicted on the Germans at Stalingrad about the same time, had turned the tide of the war, and victory was now certain. With Snow, Wind Colder Weather Moving Toward City From North

A wave of cold weather now moving south through the Prairies toward the north was expected to close in on Edmonton late Thursday night, bringing to an end the mild spell of several weeks duration.

IN MAKING the prediction, weather officials added that the north winds tonight would turn even lower the thermometer readings in this city.

Citizens shortly after midnight Thursday began to get the feeling that the cold weather was "coming" when heavy flakes of snow descended on Edmonton and vicinity.

FROM 1:30 A.M. Thursday to 3:30 a.m. about one and three-quarter inches of snow fell. The snow was not for more snow during the day.

Official forecast was "fair and cold" with estimated high for the day was 25, compared with Wednesday's minimum of 10.

MINIMUM YESTERDAY was 13 and the overnight low 20. At 2 p.m. Thursday the reading was 22 and going down.

Thursday's snowfall brought the total for the year to 22 inches, weather officials said.

In New York Phone Workers To Leave Jobs Friday Morning

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Some 7,000 long distance telephone workers including operators will leave their jobs today to picket lines tomorrow in New York City.

John J. Moran, a union spokesman said that the workers are protesting against a company plan to threaten a company-wide shutdown of telephone service in sympathy with an installation workers walk-out.

THE NEW YORK walkout would be simultaneous with establishment of picket lines, which installation workers and they are to picket across the United States tomorrow.

Installation workers—8,000 of whom went on strike in 44 states yesterday—said they expected telephone operators generally would refuse to cross their picket lines.

Telephone service in Washington would be disrupted for the first time in six days when switchboard operators of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company started leaving their posts at a 3 p.m. MST today to attend a union protest meeting.

THE WALKOUT, which the union contended was in protest against "overworking" switchboard and operators, interrupted World House broadcasts of the incoming

Yank Soldiers in Germany Protest Repatriation Delay

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Thousands of United States soldiers and members of the Women's Army Corps, protesting the delay in repatriation, demonstrated today on Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters last night, challenging the European theatre commander to meet them and loudly criticizing "politicians" for delaying their return home.

THE SOLDIERS threatened to demonstrate every night until repatriation was speeded up.

Military police, armed with rifles and gas, and rioting in the city, were called in to break up the demonstration.

Headed by the march on headquarters, speakers announced from a makeshift platform that a cable of protest had been sent to President Truman. Gen. Eisenhower, United States army commander in Europe, had shouldered criticism of Gen. McNarney and the United States War Department and announced what they called the lack of faith of friends back home.

Radical Change Foreseen

Hint RCMP Will Take Over Strike Conciliation Control

By J. V. O'NEILL, Edmonton Bulletin Staff Writer

CALGARY, Jan. 10.—A radical change in the federal policy of strike conciliation may be in the offing, according to an interview with Carl J. Stimpfle, president of the Alberta Farmers' Union, Mr. Stimpfle, a fraternal delegate to the convention of the United Farmers of Alberta now in progress at the Palliser hotel, said it was his understanding that the change would result in peace authority in the hands of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

HE WAS REPLYING to questions about a clause in the amalgamation resolution of the union providing for non-strike conciliation.

By J. V. O'NEILL, Edmonton Bulletin Staff Writer

CALGARY, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Mr. Stimpfle, president of the Alberta Farmers' Union, said today that there was much work ahead for the UFA in helping to meet the post-war problems of agriculture and that there would rest upon all delegations to see that equity for the farm movement and agriculture in general be achieved.

He thanked the delegates for their expression of confidence in the UFA and announced that he had received from him all their congratulations on Mr. Churchill's election.

Formerly Mt. Castle Mountain in Rockies Named for Eisenhower

OTTAWA, Jan. 17.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced that beautiful and majestic Mount Castle in the Rockies near Banff had been renamed Mount Eisenhower in honor of the former commander of the Allied armies in Europe, now visiting Canada.

Naming of Canadian mountains after well-known persons is not new but is comparatively rare. Mount Edith Cavell, near Jasper, named after Edith Cavell, first Great War nurse executed by the Germans, is one example.

At a meeting of the Ottawa Canadian Club where he was the guest speaker, Mr. King said the government's action was intended to be enduring recognition of Gen. Eisenhower's service. The mountain will be officially named at the Ottawa Canadian Club where he was the guest speaker.

Eisenhower Pays Moving Tribute to 'My Canadians'

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Emphasizing the neighborly collaboration between Canada and the United States, Gen. Eisenhower said today that the practice must continue and become universal if peace were to be assured.

IN A 2,000-WORD speech prepared for delivery to a Canadian luncheon gathering and carried over by radio, the general said that the United States staff of staff paid a moving tribute to "my Canadians" who fought under his command overseas.

"No man," he said, "could command a force in which Canadians were included without feeling of brotherly unity and lasting pride."

The theme of international collaboration dominated his speech and he pointed out that the example of Canada and the United States was a model for the world.

He did not mention the permanent Joint Defense Board specifically.

Premier Announces

Legislature Opens Feb. 14

Opening date of the 1946 session of the Alberta Legislature has been set for Thursday, Feb. 14.

This was announced by Premier Ernest Manning following the forenoon sitting of the caucus of government members, which he expected to close after the afternoon session.

The later date for the session, which it had been hoped to call for Jan. 20, was made imperative by the absence of the premier and probably three other ministers at the Dominion provincial conference which resumes at Ottawa on Jan. 20 and the possible necessity of reading legislation at the conference for the session in accordance with decisions taken at the conference.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The United Nations Assembly met today for the first time today, elected Belgian foreign minister Paul Henri Spaak as its president, and heard a plea by Prime Minister Clement Attlee to elect Spaak as president of the assembly in the foreign policy of the world.

Spaak, who is a member of the League of Nations, defeated Norwegian foreign minister Lie for the first UNO assembly presidency by a vote of 28 to 23.

The majority of the Belgian vote was a defeat for Russia and the bloc of eastern Europe, which had sought to elect a Soviet representative.

No Decisions Parley Points Are Discussed At SC Caucus

Without reaching any definite conclusion on any single point, it was stated Thursday by the public relations committee of the Social Credit caucus, the caucus discussed in general terms the points to be taken up with the Dominion provincial conference when it re-assembles in Ottawa on Feb. 14.

THE CHAIRMAN of the committee, N. B. James, M.L.A., Edmonton, however, said in regard to old-age pensions individual members should express a preference for the present rate of 65 rather than raising the amount of the pension to those in the 70s, unless both these concessions can be secured.

At the luncheon adjournment shortly after 12:30 Thursday afternoon, it was expected that the caucus would adjourn since the day before evening. The chairman, James, however, said that the caucus had to be back in his Little Bow constituency tomorrow to facilitate the adjournment.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A flaming feud, inherent stubbornness and a weapon in the form of a rival football league brought Frankie Fitchcock to the New York Giants Wednesday—eight years late.

Frankie at a husky young man of some 30 dispersed summers who proved at the University of Indiana that he had a penchant for flinging footballs. A busy telephone wire was all that kept him from adding to that glory in 1938.

That was the year when the Pittsburgh Steelers drafted Fitchcock, and then, in 1939, he sold him to the Washington Redskins. Ever since that time, Frankie has fretted impatiently in the shadow of the mighty eagle, Sammy Baugh, and he couldn't do a thing about it because there was only one professional football league.

IT CAME TO a head Tuesday when white-haired Tim Mara, president of the Giants, announced that Fitchcock had been obtained in a player trade.

Fitchcock has signed a three-year contract, Mara said. "I'm glad we finally got him, because we should have had him in 1938. At that time I called the Steelers to buy him but the line was busy. A few minutes later I called again and they told me the Washington line just made a deal for him."

But Mara's talk about this "trade" was more behind than just a business deal.

The feud are that Frankie was feuding with George Preston Marshall, the laundry magnate who owned the Redskins, that Frankie had refused to sign next season with Washington because Marshall told him he was just a valuable bench-warmer, and that Fitchcock was just too proud to sign with the rival All-American conference which opens up next season.

RUBBING A NOSE that leans hard sport from a number of home-bred collisions, Frankie made no bones about any of these things.

Learning against a crammed trophy case in the Giants' offices, the golden-haired guy with the bullet arm asserted bluntly that another season with the wet west kick might have resulted in a sudden case of manslaughter.

"He's the whole team," Fitchcock argued, "and I'll tell you a lot of the players are sick of it. If he'd stick to his laundry the whole team would be better off. But he has to keep telling the coach what to do, which players to use, which plays to try. Honest, the guy drives you nuts."

Frankie, a stubborn Slovak who hails from Grindstone, Pa., isn't too high, on the idea that Baugh is so much better than he at throwing a football. Supporting his performance when, after two years in the game, he returned to win the 1944 playing crown.

"BAUGH WAS on his ranch most of the time and we won our first five games," Fitchcock said, his blue eyes snapping. "Then Sam came back and of course, he was better than me, so he bench-warmed me and proceeded to drop out of the race."

Frankie, who is then just a modest to fault. But when he was injured in the 1941 game against Cleveland it was Fitchcock who took over the reins, and he led the Redskins only one point shy in a 14-14 loss.

The square-cut quarterback added to being 20, and league records show him to have won 30 last October. But there's one item both he and the Giants agree on—he has enough time left to dish out a lot of wit to G. P. Marshall and the Redskins. Not only that, he's going to live in Washington just to do his own gloating at close range.

College Heads Approve Athletic Scholarships

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Open dealing in financial help to athletes under strict faculty control was proposed Wednesday by the National College Athletic Association to keep the college of post-war sports in the United States within bounds.

In response to the National College Athletic Association, neither Dr. John A. Hama, of Michigan State College, nor Dr. J. D. Davies of Colorado College found any inherent harm in athletic scholarship.

"I WOULD NOT REQUIRE that athletes be eligible only to the same grants as are non-athletes," Dr. Hama said.

He would require that all grants, regardless of nature, be handled by the same grants as are non-athletes, and that records of these be open to the NCAA or any of its member colleges.

Dr. Davies said that he would grant to athletes either open or closed grants, but that he would not require that they be handled by the same grants as are non-athletes.

"I DO NOT KNOW as it is a university," Dr. Hama said, "if a university wants to use the funds, or funds coming to it from another source, to pay the fees and the tuition of students who are athletes, or members of the band, or student journalists, or music students, or debaters, or members of the agricultural judging teams, or just outstanding students."

"I do not want to be assured that the subsidies and gratuities and the scholarships are handled officially by the institution, and by no one else."

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—(CP)—Rye futures prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today were irregular and lower most of the session. There was some selling by locals and for American accounts. A little buying near the close.

The ROAD AHEAD

By Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

PROBABLY no government regulation has come in more criticism than the one which limits preferences for civil service positions to either those veterans who are in receipt of a pension or who have served overseas. There are hundreds of men and women who served voluntarily in Canada who feel that they are being unfairly discriminated against by this regulation. And they feel that they should be given some preference over civilian applicants.

I Saw Today

THERE ARE, however, several facts about this question which should be kept in mind before it is criticized too severely. In the first place nearly 1,000,000 men and women served in one or another of Canada's armed forces in this war. Of these a little more than half saw overseas service.

Surveys conducted among service personnel awaiting discharge have indicated that about 10 per cent of them hoped to get government jobs. In other words, on the basis of the 1,000,000 service personnel this means that about 100,000 of them want government jobs. On the basis of those with overseas service only, the percentage would be higher and there will be nearly 100,000 of them who want government jobs.

FROM THIS it is obvious that a preference which applies to half a million persons, of whom 100,000 expect to get it, is no preference at all. To extend it to include the full million, of whom 100,000 would like it, would mean that the preference would become absolutely meaningless as far as individual applicants were concerned.

Legion to Greet General Crerar

Canadian Legion officials are making plans for a hearty welcome to General H. D. G. Crerar, who commanded the First Canadian Army overseas so brilliantly in the Second World War.

THE LEGION PLANS an all-day affair for the distinguished soldier in the Memorial Hall on the night of Feb. 11. He will arrive in Edmonton on the night of Feb. 10 by train. The general has already addressed on a nationwide tour.

Advance plans for his visit here include inspection of military units, visits to veterans in hospitals, a provincial-civic official banquet and a luncheon by the Chamber of Commerce.

ROAD REPORTS

The snowfall is general from Red Deer north to Fort John. The snow of Red Deer has been very little snow; all roads are reported good these except from Grande Prairie north, where they are all reported drifted badly.

Rehabilitation Health Chairman 120 Arrive in Group City and District Troops Back After Overseas Duty

Canadian Boy Scouts are making an impressive contribution toward the rehabilitation of the Boy Scout movement in the former occupied countries. R. C. Stevenson, chairman of the Dominion executive committee of the Boy Scouts of Canada, said on his arrival here Thursday.

Mr. Stevenson, well known Montreal business man, is also co-ordinator of Royal Canadian Sea Cadet activities, is accompanied by Commander G. D. A. Kernahan, Canadian Naval Headquarters, Ottawa, and C. H. K. Hill, Winnipeg, assistant co-ordinator of Sea Cadet activities. They will spend Thursday in the city.

NEARLY 80,000 Scout handbooks have been, or are being supplied by Canadian Scouts to the organizations in Poland, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Holland and Denmark. This money has come from donations, large and small, from the Wolf Cubs and Scouts in every part of Canada. Mr. Stevenson said. In addition, the Canadian Scouts have sent $35,000 to Britain to assist Scouts of that country who lost their homes in the blitz.

TYPICAL of the messages received at Dominion headquarters of the Boy Scouts of Canada is that from Reginald Iverson, international scout commissioner for Norway, where "We are deeply thankful for the 70,000 copies of the Scout handbook which have been in the inestimable importance for the restoring of the organization in Norway."

Mr. Stevenson related that scores of letters of appreciation are sent to Canadian Scout groups from scout-veterans in Britain. "We have been sending out hundreds of pounds of choice garden seeds to the Scouts in Britain to help them to grow their own food."

120 Arrive in Group City and District Troops Back After Overseas Duty

War-time experiences embracing a wide range of military activity from administrative work in England to active participation in every campaign in which the Canadian army was engaged was reported among the 120 soldiers from Edmonton and district who arrived here on the regular CPR Calgary train Wednesday night.

THEY WERE passengers on their troopship Scythia and while some of them reported a smooth trip, others claimed that many of their number had been seasick, due to the fact the trip was so rough.

"It was a little choppy in the Irish Sea," said one, "but the rest of the trip was as smooth as could be."

PLENTY of the boys were sick, the next man to be interviewed stated. "The old Atlantic really took its toll."

All were unanimous however in their statement that the rail trip across Canada was "wonderful." Biggest thrill of all though, was that they were home again and back with their families, who had through the station to greet them.

Care to report a smooth trip, others claimed that many of their number had been seasick, due to the fact the trip was so rough.

Accurate fire from German snipers was reported by the men, most of the casualties which had been inflicted on the transport platform in the English Channel.

Urges Removal Of Restrictions On Education

The key to a solution of Alberta's educational problems is a removal of restrictions on the province which would allow divisional boards to provide all the improvements within the realm of possibility, Hon. C. Ansley, provincial minister of education, said today.

Two top war criminals on trial at Nuernberg, Germany, discuss a phase of the proceedings. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of German high command, left, speaks to Col.-Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff of Germany army. With other Nazis they are being tried by Allied tribunal.

The noose is ready for the necks of Nazis at Nuernberg. The hangman, who followed the same occupation in civilian life, has officiated at 92 hangings in Europe.

Richard Mason, 14, of Peking, Ill., poses with his cat at a police station in Chicago after telling authorities he ran away from home with "Honey" and about $1,500 of his granddad's money "because people were always stepping on my cat's tail and saying it was accidental". First Photos Show Simplicity of Late President's Home

Almost Spartan simplicity marks the late President's boyhood bedroom, with its plain brass bed and single electric light.

The east end of the Hyde Park living room. The fireplace is of gray marble; an identical one is at other side of the room.

Tokyo Subway Is "Home" to Thousands of Japs

With most of the city in ruins, hordes of homeless people in Tokyo seek shelter in the city's subway stations. The dramatic photos above, made by Tom Shafer, NEA Service-Acme Newspictures correspondent, show typical night-time scenes. Top: a few of the hundreds who stretch out in the Ugucho station. Bottom, left: a man and woman slumber, despite their cramped positions. Like this man, many of the refugees wear cloths over their mouths as protection against disease germs in the crowded, unsanitary quarters. Right: his baggage is "bed" for this tired Jap.

The photos shown here are the first ever permitted to be taken inside the Roosevelt family home at Hyde Park, N.Y., which will be opened to the public as a museum in 1948. Although the house frequently is referred to as a "mansion", the keynote of all the pictures is simplicity of furnishing and the homely "lived-in" atmosphere to be found in the average American home.

The President's massive, hand-carved wooden bed has a hand-crocheted spread. In the closet is seen his Navy cape.

Late President Roosevelt's dresser has a picture of his children, Elliott, James and Anna, held in place with a large hatpin.

It's Rumortime in Hollywood

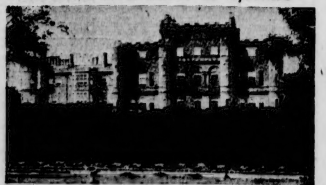

Wagging tongues of Hollywood's rumor-mongers are having a field day, what with Rita Hayworth sawing off from Orson Welles, whom she married while still engaged to Victor Mature, and Victor's re-appearance on the film sets, making love to June Haver. Says Rumor: Rita is still "torchy" about Victor. Says Victor: "When they mention Rita... I've got amnesia." Hollywood buzz-buzz also says that Victor is secretly engaged to June Haver, with whom he is shown, above, in his first screen assignment since discharge from the Coast Guard. Victor denies marriage plans. Says he: "I can't. I like her too much."
